is what one writer has termed proprietary medicines.

Good, honest proprietary medicines like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound succeed, and the homes of the masses are blessed by them, while those which are worthless or harmful soon drop out. Thirty years of success in curing female ills is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BRIBERY ALLEGATIONS
LIABLE TO FADE AWAY

there is any mistake in the premises is to say that both Aylett and Ahia were talking "through their hats."

The plot thickens as far as the mystery is concerned, but, alas, is likely to fade away through "cold feet" or a lack on the part of the persons who had made the allegations, alias the "alligators" to carry the proposition through.

The Territorial grand jury met this morning but had nothing to do with the bribery case. The jury reported to Judge Cooper at noon, handing in a return on a minor burglary matter. The inquiry is not likely to meet again for a week, during which time the bribery case may be prepared for presentation, if Ahia doesn't altogether back out of his assertions and if Aylett is still willing, as he told the supervisors, to tell the grand jury how he came to be offered a bribe.

All of which time is useful for forgetting, and for changing minds, if there is anything at all in the statement that a bribe was offered.

CARRIE JACOBS-BOND.

A mainland paper gave the following report of a concert by Mrs. Carrie Jacobs-Bond, who is to appear at St. Andrew's parish house on Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock:

The "Hour with Carrie Jacobs-Bond" was most thoroughly enjoyed by a very large audience at the Presbyterian church last evening. The Women's club, under whose auspices Mrs. Bond came to Hutchinson, certainly placed the music lovers of Hutchinson under great obligations for the treat enjoyed. Mrs. Bond's songs and stories are the kind that touch the strings of the human heart, and make them respond to the rich tones of the singer and the sweet thought of the composer. An entire evening's program is ordinarily impossible for one artist, but Mrs. Bond by combining her recitation stories, her homely philosophy and her charming melodies made the hour a delightful one from the beginning to the close. The "little stories in verse" of the common people "just folks," of their thoughts, their hopes, their yearnings, were a development of a new idea in such entertainment and the applause which followed every number showed the appreciation of the hearers.

It was a magnificent audience of people who know and appreciate music. Probably every one of them had some of Mrs. Bond's music in their home and she came to them as an old friend, one who knew and interpreted their inmost thoughts in a way which they loved and understood.

The old pieces like "Just a Wearyin' for You," "His Button Are Marked U. S.," and "I Love You Truly," were greeted with enthusiasm, and the many new things, including compositions not yet printed, were welcomed with pleasure. The Half Minute Song sentiments, with quaint and original philosophy in appropriate music settings, were specially food number of the program.

Mrs. Bond is a singer for the people as well as for the musicians, if such a distinction is allowable. So the plain people, who were there, and there were many, felt that this was their evening and that she was their interpreter.
